ABSTRACT

Intended for students, this annotated bibliography describes reference materials in International Relations that may be found in either the McLennan or Law Library of McGill University. Scope includes political science, international law, and related areas in the social and behavioral sciences, but titles which relate to the foreign relations of a single country and archival guides to primary sources are omitted. Titles are listed in three groups: encyclopedias, dictionaries, etc.,; yearbooks; and bibliographies. The latter group is subdivided into bibliographic guides, general bibliographies including indexes, and specialized subject bibliographies in diplomacy, intelligence/espionage, international business, international labour, international law, international organizations, peace, and the study of international relations. Call numbers are provided for all items. (Author/JD)

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS: A STUDENT'S GUIDE TO REFERENCE RESOURCES

International relations is a multidisciplinary field involving political science, international law and the social and behavioural sciences in general. The materials listed in this bibliography are generally to be found either in McLennan Library or the Law Library.

This guide is just a beginning point for research. It does not include titles which relate to the foreign relations of a single country like Donald M. Page's valuable bibliographies on Canadian foreign relations nor even more generalized subject bibliographies such as Halstead and Porcari's Modern European Imperialism, a Bibliography..., or Thomas Hammond's Soviet Relations and World Communism A Selected Annotated Bibliography of 7,000 Books in 30 Languages. The bibliographic guides listed in Section III.A. and many of this department's other student guides, e.g. Canadian Politics and Government, will prove helpful in this regard. It is also helpful to look through the foreign relations subdivision in the subject catalogues under the name of the country: e.g. CANADA - FOREIGN RELATIONS - BIBLIOGRAPHY.

Similarly, archival guides which are useful in identifying primary sources have been omitted from this guide. The McLennan Library has a good selection of archival guides which may be located in the subject catalogues under ARCHIVES subdivided by the name of the country e.g. ARCHIVES - CANADA - BIBLIOGRAPHY and ARCHIVES - CANADA - INVENTORIES, CALENDARS ETC.

Collections of documents, e.g. Canadian Foreign Policy 1955-1965: Selected Speeches and Documents, are entered in the L.C. subject catalogues under the name of the country or international agency with the subdivisions FOREIGN RELATIONS - SOURCES e.g. CANADA - FOREIGN RELATIONS - SOURCES. In the Cutter Subject Catalogue they will be entered along with other materials under CANADA - FOREIGN RELATIONS.

GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS

Government documents are an important source of information on international relations. The Government Documents Department of McLennan Library is a depository for the publications of international organizations such as the United Nations and the European Economic Community and receives as well many publications of individual countries. Materials in the Department's collections are listed in the Government Documents Department's special catalogue and are not usually represented in the McGill Union Catalogue. However there are government publications in the McLennan stacks and in various campus libraries listed in the MUC which are not listed in the Government Documents catalogue. It is therefore necessary to check both catalogues. The Government Documents Department has a substantial collection of guides, bibliographies and indexes to government publications and the librarians at their reference desk will be glad to help you identify and locate the material you need.

LAW LIBRARY

The Law Library is also a very rich resource for students of international affairs. In particular the library's holdings are strong in international law, especially where it concerns human rights and air and space law. The librarians in the Law Library have prepared a very useful guide entitled A Selective Bibliography of Treaties which describes over sixty basic publications for research concerning treaties in the library's collection. It serves as an excellent starting point for finding out where the text of a particular treaty may be found and includes publications which have reprinted the texts of treaties from the 16th century to contemporary times.

CENTER FOR RESEARCH LIBRARIES

Some of the bibliographic resources in this list include titles which are not available in the McGill Libraries but which may be borrowed from the Center for Research Libraries. Specialized research materials collected by CRL are available to member libraries on long loan. Of particular interest to users of this guide may be their journal and newspaper collections and their government publications including archival materials from a number of countries. CRL is prepared to obtain Public Record Office and U.S. National Archives Microfilms not held by CRL for the use of member universities' scholars. For details on the publications and services available from CRL please enquire at the reference desk or interlibrary loans office.

All locations for titles mentioned in this bibliography have not been indicated. For additional locations check the McGill Union Catalogue under the entry used in this bibliography.

For additional assistance in locating information and materials relevant to your research, or for assistance in using this guide or the sources listed in it please ask a reference librarian for assistance.

This bibliography was compiled by Elizabeth Silvester, Reference Department, McLennan Library.

_____. International Labour Documentation: Cumulative Edition 1965-1969. Author Index. Geographic Index. Boston, G. K. Hall, 1970.

The first index, covering the years 1957-1964, is arranged by subjects only. The list of subject headings used is given at the beginning of volume 1. Each subject entry gives full bibliographic details. The second set of indexes, covering 1956-69 consists of the master index (a listing arbitarily arranged by entry number giving full bibliographical citation and a very brief summary of contents), the subject index (a list of the terms used appears in volume 1), and the author and geographical index. In the last three indexes the reference is given to the entry number which must be checked in the master index. There are many entries in this catalogue dealing with international economic relations and organizations.
